Mrs. Savage has just inherited 10 million dollars from her late husband, which she uses to help the less fortunate. Her stepchildren decide she is not fit to steward the fortune, as they believe it is rightfully theirs. This leads them to have her committed to a sanitarium to prove she is incapable. While at the institute, Mrs. Savage meets a group of outcast members of society who become her new family. They ultimately help her to keep her fortune from the greedy hands of her stepchildren.
