President's Message

Bronwyn Taylor

While our March show, Duets, had slightly lower audience numbers than some of our recent shows, it was proclaimed "the best show we have seen at St. Luke's" by some of our season ticket holders and other patrons. Kudos to directors Jon Scheer and Effie MacMurchy for their artistic vision in successfully combining 4 actors to portray 8 different roles in these one-act plays, and to the actors who had to be entirely different characters from one act to the other.

Our final production this season, a mystery/comedy The Robin Hood Caper, runs May 17-28, and introduces two new directors to SLP--Lori Dunn and Rachel Millar. If you have not already purchased tickets, they are available on line through EventBrite (credit card), at The Papery on Fort St., and at the door during the run (the latter 2 with cash or a cheque made out to St. Luke's Players). Tickets are $16.

Consider becoming a Season Ticket Holder to get reserved seats, a reduced rate on tickets over purchasing them individually for each show, as well as being able to order a limited number of Panto tickets along with your season ticket application. Brochures with the application form will be available at the May show and at various locations, including The Papery and Tourism Victoria on the Inner Harbour.

This time last year we hoped the new directors and other new crew for the 2016-17 season would attract new volunteers for all aspects of producing our shows, and we were not disappointed. We have collected a cadre of new volunteers for next season. If you are interested in or curious about getting involved with any of the many and varied aspects necessary to produce a show, please contact me so we can discuss your interests further and possibly connect you with one or more of our producers/directors for next season. No experience is necessary for many of the positions. You can also access our Production Manual on the SLP website to see what is required of each position, to help you decide what might be of interest to you.

As you drive along Cedar Hill X Rd. you may have noticed the new sign on the end of the building that recognizes the Hall as the 'Home of St. Luke's Players'. Starting in the fall, look for a sub-board below the sign that will advertise our shows.

Capital projects being considered by the Players for next year are renovations to the dressing rooms (approved), leveling the stage floor, and work to the under-stage storage area to improve lighting and insulation (pending).

Soundproofing and blackening out the kitchen are on hold at this time, as the church decides what modifications it might make to the kitchen.

Stay tuned for the next newsletter to hear more about the Annual General Meeting and BBQ to be held this summer when we elect a new Executive Committee for 2017-18 and members will vote on the special resolutions that will make our Constitution and Bylaws compliant with the new BC Societies Act.

Respectfully submitted,
Bronwyn Taylor

As we write this, we're more than halfway through rehearsals for The Robin Hood Caper, St. Luke's Players final show of the season. We have started full runs of the play, with sound F/X and pretty much all of our props. The show is coming together beautifully, and we're very proud of our hardworking cast!

We've been honoured to have this opportunity to work with St. Luke's Players - both of us are new to this group. Lori is an amateur from the South Okanagan who moved to town a few short years ago, and Rachel is a recent graduate from UVic's Theatre department, with a focus on directing. The experiment of throwing two strangers together to direct a show is paying off, we feel, as we're learning a great deal from each other.

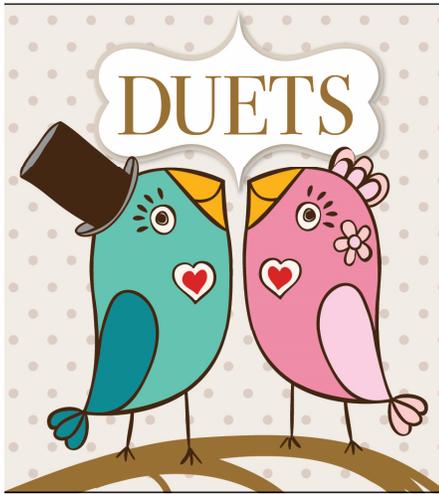

Because of Rachel's involvement, the Players have an influx of new, young, enthusiastic volunteers working hard behind the scenes Jaymee Sidel (Stage Manager), Chris Green (Set & Lighting Design), Emily Friesen (Sound Design), Em Yarnold & Quinn MacTavish (Costumes), and the lighting and sound operators, Ben Turner, Niko Batinovic, Gus McFids and Maegan Bercovici.

Our actors are a mix of familiar faces (so we've been told!) and some new ones - St. Luke's Players theatre regulars will recognize De Roger, Jordan Bell, Janine Longy, Bill Tolson, Malcolm Harvey, John Johnson and Beverly van Druten-Blais, but will find Selene Hough, Roland Wille and Bill Taylor to be great additions to the roster!

As to the play itself...well, it's hard to describe it without giving away the plot. Let's just say that title is a great big reveal, and that The Robin Hood Caper includes a bit of romance, some shenanigans, and a big pile of humour! Hope to see you come out!

Co-directors, Rachel Millar and Lori Dunn

When director Jon Scheer and I sat down to discuss Duets for the first time, we knew our first challenge would be to find 4 actors who could, together, tackle the 8 colourful characters of Peter Quilter's charming play. We needn't have worried: we found ourselves a wonderful cast in Mitch and Jo Barnes, Michael Rodgers, and Susan Ko (in her first St. Luke's production), all of whom jumped in with gusto and gave us 2 hilariously entertaining characters apiece. Even colds, cancelled rehearsals due to the snow, and buckets of water dumped over their heads couldn't deter their talent and hard work!

Set Designer Dick Newson gave us a perfectly simple set to play in, one that could be transformed into 4 very different locations with ease, while Anne Swannell's original art, both on the backdrops and on the walls, really made each separate location feel different and new. Sally Crickman and Ann Harris (Set Decor and Scenic Painting, and Props, respectively) rose to the challenge of providing us with all the elements the show needed - over 100 props and set décor items! Paul Hilton's lighting design, and Mitch and Jon's sound design not only illustrated each scene beautifully, but gave us many delightful gags (surprise tango music and a perfectly coordinated thunder and lighting storm, to name a few) that thoroughly delighted the audience. Vinnie Chadwick dolled up our actors to perfection (a personal favourite being Mitch's coordinated purple outfit), and Anne Marie Arneson was absolutely brilliant in creating the audience-favourite wedding dress, ready for rips, tears, and sudden unexpected downpours.

All in all, Duets was a great success, and from the cackles, guffaws, and other assorted hoots of laughter I heard from the booth every night, the audience loved every minute of it. Thank you to everyone who put their time and energy into such a fun and successful production.

Restrospective from Euphemia MacMurchy,
Stage Manager and Assistant Director
